CAIN REBELS AGAINST GOD GENESIS 4:1-15

People watched Noah building the ark. While he was cutting the wood, Noah would tell the people, "God has promised to send a big flood that will come up, up, up over the mountains. God always keeps His promises. If you want to be safe, you must get on the ark." They laughed at Noah. They said, "You're crazy. There's not going to be a flood. We don't believe your God." They didn't listen to God's words or obey Him. God said to Noah, "It's time to get on the ark. The flood is coming. Get on the boat, and the animals will come to you." Noah obeyed God and took his family onto the ark. As God said, the animals began coming, two by two. Then God shut the door of the ark. Noah's family waited one day, two days, three days—no rain. They waited four days, five days, six days—no rain. Finally, on the seventh day, rain began to fall from the sky. It rained and rained. Buckets of water poured from the sky. The water came up, up, up, higher and higher. The rain covered the entire earth, even the highest mountains.

Noah and his family looked out the window, and all they could see was water everywhere. There were no trees, and no land was anywhere in sight. Noah's family was glad that God was keeping His promise to keep them safe on the ark.

When the rain stopped, God sent a wind to take away the water. The ark stopped on the top of Mount Ararat. Noah let a raven fly out the window to see if it could find land. Noah waited seven days and sent out a dove. It brought back an olive branch in its beak. Keep waiting! Noah waited seven more days and sent out the dove. It didn't come back. It had found land. It wouldn't be long now!

Noah waited for God to tell him when to get out of the ark onto dry ground. Finally God said, "Come out of the ark." Noah's family and all the animals hurried off the ark. It felt good to run and jump and shout for joy. The animals went away to find their own homes.

Noah wanted to thank God for keeping his family safe. He built an altar. The altar was a pile of rocks on which Noah burned an offering of thanks to God. Noah bowed his head and thanked God for taking care of his family. God was pleased with Noah's offering of thanks. He said to Noah, "Do you see that rainbow in the sky? I am making you a promise that I will never again send a flood that covers all the mountains. I will send rain—even big rains called floods—but I will never again cover the whole earth with water. When you see the rainbow in the sky, you will remember the promise I am making to you. I always keep My promises." God always keeps His promises.
